

WE WAIT

We wait patiently while you overlook us for the younger ones.
We watch quietly as you play with the little ones.
We are mature enough to have manners.
We are happy to sit quietly by your side or on your lap.
We are young at heart and still enjoy our toys.
We ask only for a gentle stroke, a sunny spot and someone who cares.
We have years of purrs left in us.
We wish someone would see us for the loyal friend we could be.
We are the cats that are no longer kittens.
We are the ones who have waited so long for a home.
We are still waiting.
